

MUNICIPAL STADIUM - POZNAN (POLAND)

The Municipal Stadium in Poznan - or Stadion Miejski as it is called in Polish - is close to the town centre and was built in 1968. It was actually completed only twelve years later and opened in August 1980 with a match played by the home team Lech Posen.

In 2006, the Posen Arena was the venue for the opening match and also the final of the U-19 European Championship. It will also host the matches in the group phase.

The Arena has been completely refurbished especially for the EURO 2012 and reopened in September 2010.

EURO 2012 matches:
3 group matches

Facts at a glance:
Capacity: 43,090
Completion: 1980
Reconstruction work: 2010

TROX contribution:
Fire dampers
Diffusers
Shut-off dampers
Volume flow controllers